About the Author

When the author was very young, he would take his toys apart to see what made them work. As he got older, he turned that inquisitiveness to how his mind worked. Between the ages of 9-18 he learned or started 'playing' with a multitude of things such as: he could not trust my mind – 9 years old; the relationships of wants – desires – in everything we do (and changing his desires) – 9 years old; he learned the permanence of mathematics and science – 12-18 years old; there were 'glitches' in our – Mankind's -- perception of reality – 13 years old; he learned blank mind exercises – 11 years old; he learned truth perception in everyday objects – 15 years old; he learned to use music to aid blank mind exercises – 15 years old; and, he started to experiment with entering deep relaxation trance states – 15-18 years old.

The ages of 18-20 found Steven as a merchant seaman and he sailed the Pacific orient for a while before the selective service caught up with him. When a seaman, he learned about chanting and would do this on the deck of the ships he sailed and he also 'played' more with various trance states including self-hypnosis and sleep learning.

He entered the army at the age of twenty. The author turned the army experience into a serious metaphysical study and mental practice, mostly as a rebellion to the army ("They got my body, but they don't have my soul.") He started applying empty mind exercises to everything he did.

He began studying and doing exercises regularly in the Tarot, I Ching, thaumaturgical magic, music aided exercises, and learned raja yoga. Steve devised and performed numerous empirical experiments in the mystical/ESP/magic vein at this time and did many while he was doing his military chores

It was while in the army he was initiated into an intense period of internal schooling of thirteen months, which had distinct transitions/initiations through the 'schooling'. The schooling continued after his release from the army. The graduation from this school required his death. The age of twenty-three found Steven as a fourth level initiate, an adept.

Thinking it could not be that simple, he then studied the core concepts of world religions. The author found he could pick up books like Tao te Ching, Upanishads, or Bhagavad Gita and the majority of the time knew exactly what the books were expressing.

He has been in service to communities dedicated to growth, education, service, or of a spiritual nature most of the time since then. Fixing things is his version of "chopping wood and carrying water". The spectrum of these communities range from years working at Esalen Institute to years working for a Catholic monastery. Consequently, he has been exposed to a multitude of philosophies and thought systems.

He has taught workshops in Mysticism and the Moody Blues, Magick: Preparation of the Operator, and was a Course in Miracles© group discussion leader for a number of years. In addition, he has regularly taught an extracurricular quarter class titled an Introduction to the Mystic Arts (or Science) class at Heartwood Institute.

In the summer time, Steven can be found attending outdoor music festivals, applying AM A I's concepts.
